Shooting for Spring Goals

By Nicole Battistella, Ramsay Community Association President

Spring is in full swing and plans for Summer are underway! After a tough stretch, it's hard to ignore the buzz in the air with over 100 kiddos playing Ramsay Soccer every Thursday night, the Flames heading into Round 2 (fingers crossed they're further along by the time you read this!) and the Stampede planning to run at full capacity.

This makes for busy times for the RCA as our volunteers work to stay connected to event traffic control planning, the school parking fundraiser, the community garden, and rec programming while making progress on our 3 goals for the term:

1 - Our City-Leased Facility (aka: The Rink/Bike Skills Park and Shack)

The RCA was successful with its applications for CFEP and CCG Grants to cover the full cost of 3 required lifecycle items including rink shack electrical, soffit repairs and improved access from the parking lot to the rink. The work schedule should be confirmed next week.

We have an opportunity to form a strategic partnership with the Calgary Pickleball Club by putting courts in the rink and generating revenue through a portion of their memberships. This is strictly in an exploratory phase, and in tandem, the RCA is in the early stages of developing an RFP with the intent to apply for a grant for engagement to create a holistic community-driven plan for the rink and adjacent greenspace. If you would like to be involved in the initial focus group, email president@ramsaycalgary.ca

While the RCA remains 100% volunteer-run, or until a long-term rink plan is established, we are unable to conduct formal rentals, and it will remain open for multi-purpose community use. If you would like to contribute to the community's fixed costs, please consider purchasing an RCA Membership at ramsaycalgary.ca (2022/23 annual memberships available July 1st).

2 - Master Events Plan for Scotsman's Hill

Since the March update, Ward 9 has initiated a Special Event Policy Area, with a notice of motion almost complete, and it will then go to Executive Committee then to Council.

The role of the RCA is to work with the City of Calgary to ensure momentum and provide opportunities for community feedback throughout the process. As we enter busier times on the Hill, if you see things that are working well or not, please submit your comments to the "Scotsman's Hill Feedback Form" posted on ramsaycalgary.ca

3 - Technology

Financial software implementation is complete and will be put to the test with the upcoming FY2022 audit, which will be presented at the October 4th AGM.

We have collected ideas for volunteer management systems, and based on current capacity, this initiative will be revisited next term at the discretion of the new Board.

In other exciting news:

- Canada Day/Stampede Fireworks and event traffic control planning is well underway. Expect barriers at the hill in place for July 1 until the end of Stampede and for residents/guests to show physical passes to get through in the evenings. Friendly reminder to remain respectful of CPA and Bylaw officers at the barricades, as these controls are in place for the safety of our community. In collaboration with the RCA, Ward 9, CPA, CPS, and CoC Roads, more detailed communication will be drafted and circulated to the community by the City of Calgary. We will share this information to our website and social media when it becomes available.
- The Ramsay tennis court upgrades began May 16th and will take approximately 6 weeks to complete
- The Community Garden is looking great and there are still a few plots left to rent
- The next Casino date will occur in Q1 2023, date TBD

Lastly, if you have ever considered joining the RCA, we are now seeking candidates for the roles of President, Vice President Internal, Secretary, and Director at Large for 2022-2023. Please reach out to me or any other current Board Member if you're interested.

Sincerely, Nicole - president@ramsaycalgary.ca

Growing up in Ramsay & Inglewood

By Carolyn Prellwitz

My first home was 1028 – 19th Avenue SE, Calgary, a one-story house that would be described as an Edwardian cottage. I am not sure when it was built. My grandparents lived in this house from 1926 to 1945 and then my parents from 1945 to 1956.

My grandmother, Elizabeth, never liked her husband's work as a coal miner. Her older brother had emigrated to Canada in 1912 and found work in Calgary. Stories of his life in this new frontier city were positive and in 1926 my grandparents emigrated to Canada from Scotland with their two children, Anne, and Bill (my father). Their first house was at 1028 – 19th Avenue SE.

1028 - 19th Ave

My grandfather, James, got a job with the Canadian Pacific Railway as a yardman. He worked for the CPR for 30 years retiring at age 65 in 1958. Then, for a few years in retirement, he worked as a caretaker on Saturdays for Reggin Roofing & Sheet Metal Company, the same company for whom my father worked. The CPR rail yard was walking distance to James' house. I remember the round house and turntable that once stood in the CPR Alyth yard.

Once my grandparents settled in Calgary, they became lifelong members of the St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church at 1405 - 8th Avenue SE. Its steeple is unique, and one of the most distinct I have seen anywhere. I remember well the brass organ pipes inside the church. Today (2021) the church is now part of the Roman Catholic diocese—but still with the name St. Andrew's. I would love to see if the organ pipes are still inside. The church was about 10 blocks from their home and owning no car, my grandparents would have walked to and from services each Sunday.

James and Elizabeth were also long-time members of the St. Andrew Caledonian Society in Calgary, founded 1884 and incorporated as a non-profit society in 1923. Elizabeth was Secretary of the Society for 14 years. I met my first Santa Claus at one of the Society's Christmas parties.

1026 - 18th Avenue SE

In the early 1930s a few of the CPR yardmen decided to form a lawn bowling club to provide exercise and entertainment in their off-duty hours. The result was the Chinook Lawn Bowling Club in the back lot of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Gay's property near the CPR Alyth shops area. James and Elizabeth were part of this group. When the founding group outgrew that back lot green, they worked together to build the Inglewood Lawn Bowling Club at 1235 - 8th Avenue SE. It opened in 1936. James took on the task of groundskeeper and Elizabeth was able to get back into lawn bowling championship form. The club was within walking distance of their home so that too kept them both trim. Elizabeth was nominated by the Calgary Sports Women's Association for Calgary Senior Women's Athlete of the Year in 1964. She won many trophies for lawn bowling.

My father, Bill as he was known, attended Ramsay School and then Western Canada High School. In 1942 on his 19th birthday he enlisted in the Royal Canadian Air Force. He was first assigned to the Westrel aircraft maintenance plant repairing Harvard airplanes until April 1943. Further training followed at Medicine Hat AB, London ON, Montreal QC, Lachine QC, and Boundary Bay BC. It was at Boundary Bay that my father met my mother, Jessie May Hughes. She was the head stenographer for the base commander. The commander's office was off limits to all except those who worked in it, so Dad was never allowed to drop in to say hello to Mom when she was on duty there. They had to content themselves with seeing each other when both were off duty at the same time!

As soon as the war ended my parents were given leave to marry at St. Andrew's on September 15th, 1945. Following a short honeymoon in Banff they both returned to active duty at Boundary Bay. Mom was honorably discharged in early October 1945 and Dad in late November that same year – both with the rank of Corporal.

Their marriage timing was perfect as my grandparents had their eye on a new home for themselves at 1026 – 18th Avenue SE which they purchased, leaving the purchase of the home at 1028 -19th Avenue SE for my parents.

I do not know when my grandparents' second home in Ramsay was built. I can only verify that this was their property from 1947 to 1985 and that they kept it immaculate, inside and out. The outside was stuccoed and always looked fresh with regular applications of white paint. The front lawn at that time would be envied by any golf course as a putting green. It was kept trim and weedless by James, just like he kept the greens at the Inglewood Lawn Bowling Club. Beneath the front porch and hidden by the white picket fence with green trim was a bed of peonies.

The front porch of the house was glassed in during the 1960s, I think, providing both a mud room for snowy boots and wet shoes, and an enclosed sunroom. A new door was installed at the top of the stairs leading to the former porch.

18th Avenue SE is now also a one-way street with travel going from west to east. The houses on either side of my grandparents' home are still as I remember them, as is the house directly across the street. It used to belong to Mr. Williams. My parents' home was directly behind his, and Mr. Williams used to allow me to walk through his yard to get to and from my grandparents' home on my own.

I remember one day I got in trouble with my mother and started running through Mr. Williams' yard to my grandparents house with my mother right behind me. I cannot remember what I did, but I do vividly remember Mr. Williams shouting "Run, Carey, run!" My mother started to laugh, stopped, and turned around to go back to our house. She knew I would be home later for dinner.

Prior to my sister's birth in the fall of 1950, my father closed in the front porch of our house with new walls and lots of window panes. The sun shone through those glass planes making it a sunroom and useful play area for me and my sister during cold winter months and rainy summer days. Shakes covered the area below the glassed-in area and a new front door was added to complete the sunroom. The house looks similar today, except that the shake trim has been replaced and the house itself raised to accommodate a proper basement instead of a cellar. Also, the old wire fence and metal gate are gone.

My mother used to do her major shopping at the Alberta Corner Store, just a half block west of our house on 19th Avenue. It looks just the same today as it did more than seventy years ago.

I attended Ramsay School for grades 1 to 3. I sat in what is today described as a "vintage antique wood and iron desk" with inkwell and pen/pencil slot. The desks were linked together by iron framing and bolted to the school floor. And yes, like all children of my era I learned to write with a dip pen, black ink from a bottle, and blotting paper.

Ramsay School is situated on the east side of Scotsman's Hill. This was a great place to sled/toboggan and ski during the winter months. Our family took great advantage of this natural geographic prominence to do just that. Dad started me skiing at age 7. The skis were simply lashed around my regular snow boots. The deal was to walk up the hill carrying your skis and poles, lash the skis to your boots at the top, point your skis downhill, push off with your poles, and stay standing all the way down. Then at the bottom, remove the skis, pick them up, start up the hill to repeat the process again and again. No snowplowing, no slaloming – sort of like standing on a toboggan all the way down. And no such things as ski boots or ski bindings then. If you fell, the skis stayed attached and you hoped the skis would not whip around and hit you in the head or twist your knee during the fall.

My parents bought property in Altadore—then just one block from the city limits at 50th Avenue—and we moved into our new home Easter weekend 1956. Our first home in Ramsay was rented for a few years and then later sold.

My grandfather, James Jack, died in 1981 at the age of 87 years. My grandmother, Elizabeth Jack, remained alone in their home until 1985 when she moved into a nursing home. Her home was sold that same year. She died in 1994 at the age of 99 years. My parents lived in their Altadore house until 2015 when they moved into a seniors independent living residence near Mount Royal University. My father, Bill Jack, died in 2018 at the age of 94 years and my mother, Jessie Jack, followed him nine months later, also in 2018, at the age of 92 years.

My daughter and her family still live in Calgary in the Altadore district. A drive by my first home on 19th Avenue SE is always part of my itinerary of my visits to Calgary.

This is from Avery Maxwell, who lives in 1026 - 18 Ave with her family, who provided the contemporary photos: I believe the house was renovated quite a bit sometime in the '90s when the original windows were replaced, a new front and back deck were built, new landscaping (there are still peonies but by the fence, now) and one bedroom on the main floor had been removed for a larger living room and there are now two more bedrooms in the basement. It's a really unique house!

It's Kicking Off Again!

By Margaret Toye

Incredibly, it's been three years since the fields near the rink have been filled with kids, soccer balls, and adoring spectators. In May, the beautiful game returned. About 110 children from 79 families along with 24 volunteer coaches are gathering every Thursday evening until the end of June. There are four teams for each of the age groups (3-4, 5-6, and 7-8-9) and there's immeasurable energy zipping around the grass.

Back in 2019, Esther Middleton headed up the soccer fun, and that fall Jen DeJong took over the reins in preparation for the Spring 2020 season that was not meant to be. This year Jen's son Harrison gets to play soccer, thanks to his mom and the team of Carla Ingoldsby, Sheena Gauthier, Melody Rogers, Julie Tschofen, and Catrina Ditoso. Tim Horton's provides a jersey, socks, and a ball for each child, ensuring it's just a $20 registration fee.

I asked Isla and Miles McMechan if they are having fun with soccer and the answer was "YES!" The best part, for both, is playing games. For Isla (6), the hardest part about soccer is "when other people get close to the net and you're the goalie." For Miles (3), the hardest part about soccer is "the grass."

The Northern Flicker

By Carol Engstrom

Have you ever heard a rat-rat-tat while walking in your neighborhood? Well, the sound you are hearing is the Northern Flicker.

This member of the woodpecker family is recognized by the large black patch on its breast. Underneath the black patch are many spots. These spots are unique to the flicker. It also has a striking flash of red on its head, and while it's in flight you might pick out a white rump.

That rat-at-at is commonly heard in Ramsay and other parks in Calgary. Flickers often nest in cotton wood trees and birch trees while foraging on insects and ants. They often eat berries like mountain ash and currants, especially in the winter. In fact, while out walking recently on an early spring morning I heard some drumming on a metal chimney and I looked up and saw a flicker. I look forward to hearing them on my walks and when I am playing piano. They have a faster tempo than the music I am playing.

Flickers' beaks can create havoc on human structures such as wooden houses, stucco, and tin siding, during the busy mating season.

They like to build their nests in old trees such as weeping willows where I have seen them nesting in Ramsay. They are voracious with their beaks because they are constantly searching for more food. Like a hungry 14year old.

Like me, they prefer to hang out with a couple of friends rather than in large groups.

They are common in all provinces in Canada and usually migrate to Canada for the breeding season, and some will stay in the US for the whole year.

So, when you are exploring our community, first listen and then see if you can spot the Northern Flicker in an old weeping willow.

The Greatest Outdoor Show on Earth is welcoming the community back July 8 to 17 at Stampede Park.

Stampede 2022 officially kicks off with the return of Stampede Parade as nearly 300,000 spectators will take in the iconic tradition which has been a staple since 1912. Returning to a full parade format, along the traditional parade route through downtown Calgary, there will be a showcase of floats, horses, and marching bands, in a celebration of community spirit.

It all starts at the Calgary Stampede Midway, filled with rides, games, the BMO Kids' Zone, Canadian Forces Display, the Dog Bowl, The Market at BMO Centre, the Monster Energy Compound, the Rotary Dream Home, and performances by the Stampede Showband at the Saddledome stairs. You won't be able to resist the smells of the Midway food, between the old favourites like cotton candy, corn dogs, and mini doughnuts, and the new adventurous additions like Kraft Dinner soft serve, Habanero Honey Ice Pops, and Cricket Hot Dogs.

From the Midway, you can access all aspects of western events and art, agriculture, and celebrations of Indigenous cultures. Cool off at the Western Oasis, check out the Vintage Tractor Pull at the Northern Lights Arena, or marvel at the Heavy Horses at the Nutrien Western Event

Centre. Experience the atmosphere at Elbow River Camp. Or feel the beat at one of Canada's largest competitive powwows, The Calgary Stampede Powwow, staged at the Saddledome July 12 to 14 from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m. each day.

Car-Free Sundays in August on 9th Ave

By Rebecca O'Brien, Executive Director of Inglewood BIA

In 2021, the Inglewood Business Improvement Area (BIA), supported by the City, piloted Car-Free Sundays on 9th Avenue. This was the first non-programmed, regular street closure for the City of Calgary. Car-Free Days are well-established in other cities around the world; even the Town of Banff had a car-free main street throughout the summer of 2021.

Word spread about CFS last summer and crowds started to pour into 9th Avenue. This brought direct economic benefits to local businesses. A BIA-commissioned survey showed that 75% of merchants said Car-Free Sundays brought more foot traffic in the business area compared to the previous month and 87.5% of businesses would support a version of Car-Free Sundays in August, 2022.

The BIA used the opportunity from the pilot to learn what works and what does not, both for the surrounding communities and the businesses. Some residents of Ramsay were unaware the street closures would be happening. Unpredictable detours can be frustrating at the best of times. Given the limited connecting points from Ramsay in accessing 9th Avenue, the BIA appreciates that people have advance information so they can plan their transportation needs.

Signage reminding residents of the Sunday detour will be erected at key locations well in advance of the street closures. Information will also be posted on @inglewoodyyc and inglewoodyyc.ca. Case in point: this year, the BIA is making sure Ramsay-ites can read about CFS in your newsletter, well in advance!

Car-Free Sundays are: (1) directly beneficial to the community's main street businesses, (2) a big attraction for Calgarians, and (3) a creative way to address the climate crisis by giving priority to non motorised vehicles. The BIA's role is to bring vibrancy to its main street, which also enriches the surrounding communities.

The BIA invites Ramsay residents to join Car-Free Sundays this summer. bring your bikes, scooters, roller skates, skateboards, pets, friends, children, grandparents, guests who are visiting you...set up a picnic in the middle of the street. Bring a bocce set. Set up a chess table! Bring your guitar. On August 14, 21 and 28, it is YOUR street. And Sunfest is on Saturday, July 30!

We are working on the groundbreaking next chapter of Inglewood and Ramsay's Brewery and Industrial Rail Lands.

About

Brewery-Rail Lands envisions an innovative, compact, livable, mixed-use, and transit-oriented urban development in the heart of Inglewood that reimagines its industrial roots for the 21st century.

Project Update

A comprehensive planning and outreach process is underway for the Brewery-Rail Lands' MATCO Application Site. As we work through the first round of our application review with City Administration, we are having great discussions with several stakeholder groups through in-person and digital meetings. We continue to receive thoughtful feedback through our website and dedicated project email, and we'll soon release an outreach summary where questions and common themes of feedback will be summarized and responded to by the project team.

Please stay tuned for future opportunities to participate in our outreach process through our e-news subscription and project website at BreweryRailLands.com.
